UM LAW SCHOOL TO HOLD TAX INSTITUTE NOV. 8-9

MISSOULA --

Lawyers, accountants and estate planners interested in the latest information about taxes can attend the University of Montana School of Law's Tax Institute Friday, Nov. 8, and Saturday, Nov. 9, in Missoula.

Institute sessions will cover subchapter S corporations, chapter 14 special valuation rules for estate planning, pension planning, ethics in tax practice and other topics.

Speakers will include U.S. Treasury Department lawyers Jody Brewster and James Miller, Walter Nunnallee, law professor from North Carolina Central University, accountants F. Kelleher Riess and Lucy Riess from New Orleans and Martin Burke, dean of the UM law school.

Attendance qualifies lawyers for 10 continuing education credits and certified or licensed public accountants for 12 continuing education credits.

The program will begin with a cocktail reception Thursday, Nov. 7, from 4:30-6:30 p.m. at the Holiday Inn-Parkside. The institute will be held in the Governor's Room of the Florence Building in downtown Missoula. Registration is $175.

For more information, call the law school at 243-4311.
